Former Patient Chats With Northampton Doctor

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy Sunday returned to Northampton and renewed his acquaintance with Dr. Thomas F. Corriden of Cooley Dickinson Hospital who is credited with saving the senator's life following a near-fatal airplane crash a year ago in Southhampton. Dr. Corriden, at left, is shown here with the senator and Mrs. Kennedy.

Senator Visits Orchard Crash Site, Holds Cooley Dickinson Conference

Fiesta Ends, Attended By 6000

Prizes Awarded at Puerto Rican Festival; Incidents Deplorable

A parade, barbecue, games and races Sunday concluded the San Juan Fiesta, annual outdoor celebration of the city's Puerto Rican community. Married by Violence An estimated 6000 persons attended the weekend street festival in the North End, which was marred by a stabbing Saturday night and a fight on Sunday. The outburst Sunday night, involving three adults and a juvenile, shortened the appearance of Mayor Charles V. Ryan, Jr., who was slated to present awards to outstanding students. Rev. Santiago Nunez of St. Michael's Cathedral addressed the large throng and spoke of the goodwill that many members of the Puerto Rican community have tried to build up over the years and the bad effect these incidents have on that work. Other leaders of the Puerto Rican community expressed their disappointment.

NORTHAMPTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy Sunday night visited the Southhampton site of his near-fatal airplane crash last year and later announced he was establishing a permanent nursing scholarship fund at Cooley Dickinson Hospital where he received emergency treatment for a broken back suffered in the tragedy. The Kennedy Sunday went from Southhampton to Cooley Dickinson where the senator renewed his acquaintance with Dr. Thomas F. Corriden, who is credited with saving his life. At a hospital conference attended by about 150 persons, Kennedy said "It's wonderful to be able to walk in here." He read a letter from Sen. and Mrs. Birch Bayh of Indiana, thanks for the treatment they received at the hospital and of the Kennedy Nursing Scholarship Fund. See KENNEDY NURSING Page Sixteen

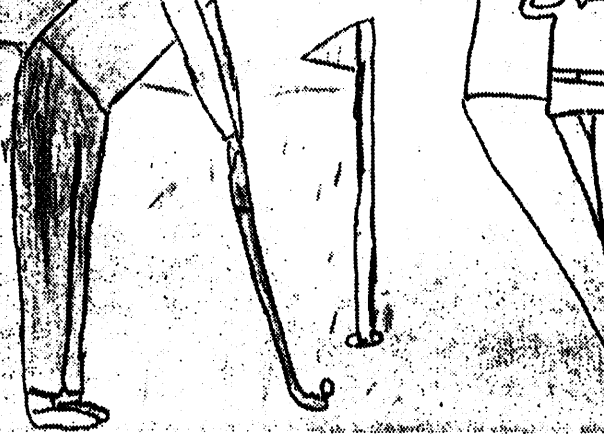

Six Scientist-Astronauts Set To Begin Moon Flight Training

HOUSTON, Tex. — Six scientist-astronauts, picked from a group of 1500, begin training next month for a trip to the moon at least four years away. The six were chosen in a manned spacecraft center decision to include scientists in the Apollo moon program. One of those selected, Dr. Frank C. Mitchell of Rice University, indicated Sunday applicants were put through exhaustive physical tests. "It was a different experience, all right," said the 31-year-old physicist. "It took over a week and they just tested everything five different ways." The six reportedly will be trained in a simulated space environment. See SIX ASTRONAUTS Page Sixteen

Shastri Asks Long Pause In Viet Raids

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India called again Sunday for a much longer and better-advised pause in the U. S. bombing of North Viet Nam to create a climate in which peace might be achieved. First Said Too Short "The first pause almost went unnoticed," Shastri said. "There was no prior announcement. It was a short pause and I do not think it could produce the desired results." Shastri expressed his views in an interview on a radio and television program. It was taped in London Thursday and broadcast in this country Sunday. The United States halted its bombing of Communist North Viet Nam from May 12 to 18 and expressed disappointment afterward that there had been no response from the Communists. Fatherhood Is Fun — As Teenagers See It

South African teenager Cynthia Scott depicts her father as a golfer, left, and as taking his ease on the beach. Cynthia's "paintings" were entered in a Johannesburg, South Africa, "Paint Your Dad" contest. All but five of 500 illustrations entered depicted fathers as fun lovers, work shy, girl-watching males. The five showed fathers doing some form of work. The South African children tried to think their fathers seemed to be doing something fun. "He's painted as a pretty gay, fun-loving character with a spend more time admiring pretty girls than they do working," Mrs. Joan Tearle, organizer of the contest, considers the en-

U. S. Planning to Build Big New Viet Nam Base

SAIGON (UPI) — Authoritative American sources said Sunday the United States will build a big new military base on Chu Lai Beach, about 350 miles northeast of Saigon. It may be the first all-American air-ground sea fortress in Viet Nam. Chu Lai's present garrison is unique in that it is the only large American base in South Viet Nam which is not shared by a major Vietnamese military command. If this policy is maintained, the new Chu Lai complex will be the first all-American fortress in Viet Nam. The big, new complex will include a hard surfaced, jet airfield, unloading ramps for Navy transport ships, and support facilities for ground troops. American sources said surveying has already begun. They said more than 1000 construction workers will labor for almost two years before it is finished. Chu Lai is presently the home of three squadrons of U. S. Marine Corps fighters. They operate from a temporary, steel mesh runway, which was built this spring by U. S. Navy Seabees. American Marines defend the base.

Ecumenical Peace Plea Closes UN Charter Rites

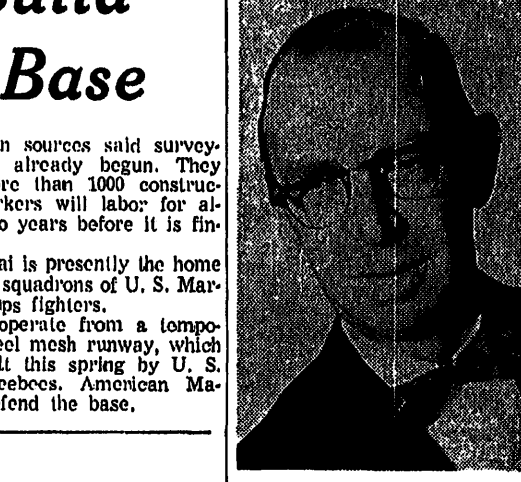

World's Major Faiths Unite in Appeal For Trust, Understanding

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Members of the world's principal religions Sunday issued a unanimous plea for peace at a mass meeting marking the end of the United Nations' 20th anniversary commemorative session. "It has become almost an axiom that if one side comes forward... with what may be prima facie a reasonable proposal, the other side immediately looks for hidden snags and traps," he said. "If nations can learn to trust each other a little more, it would be easy for us, in the words of the charter of the United Nations to live together in peace with one another as good neighbors." World Faiths Present Other speakers at the meeting represented Islam, Buddhism, Hinduism, Greek Orthodox, Judaism. See ECUMENICAL Page Sixteen

Victim of 'Mad Dogs' N. Y. Horror Story: Death of a Youth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ivan Terach, 16, was a quiet boy. He had the misfortune to be born and raised in an area of New York where a youth today has to think twice before stepping outside his home late at night. After dark the neighborhood often becomes a jungle. Ivan was aware of it and seldom went out evenings. Usually he spent his evenings reading books, mostly on biology and other scientific subjects. Saturday night it was the same, almost. But at 11:45 p. m., Ivan decided to go down the street the Sugar Bowl, a typical corner store selling candy, cigarettes and ice cream. Ivan asked his father, Max, a house painter to accompany to him. The father agreed. Ivan and his father didn't know it at the time but for three quarters of an hour before they stepped out of the door of their fourth-floor, four-room apartment police were on the prowl for a gang police described as "a pack of mad dogs." At 10:45 p. m. in the Terach family home, the police found Ivan. He was lying on his back, his head on a wall. He had been shot in the back of the head. A $5000 claim has been filed against the city "for medical and hospital bills and permanent bodily injury" to an infant who was stricken. "This now appears to be the biggest thing to hit the nation in almost 30 years, in terms of the number of persons affected within a given area," said Dr. Louis Herz, regional director of the California Department of Public Health. Organism Found Some 6000 persons were interviewed until on June 2, laboratory tests showed that the organism was a bacterium called Salmonella Typhimurium hits the intestinal tract, causing severe spells of vomiting, diarrhea and fever. 'Bug' Upsets 18,000; Cal. Town Chlorinates

RIVERSIDE, Cal. — One month ago Sunday county health officials, routinely checking reports from hospitals and doctors, noted intestinal disorders were on the upswing—markedly. "To date more than 18,000 persons have served as uncomfortable targets for an organism haunting in on them through the city's water system. The organism — a bacterium called Salmonella Typhimurium hits the intestinal tract, causing severe spells of vomiting, diarrhea and fever. Three victims have died. But Guerrillas Strike Back, Attack Airfield

U. S. Planes Pound Tou Morong, Seized by Communists Saturday

SAIGON, Viet Nam (Monday) (AP) — South Vietnamese troops killed seven Viet Cong provincial and local officials Sunday in a lightning raid on a Mekong Delta village 35 miles south of Saigon, U. S. military informants reported. They called it the biggest single bag of Viet Cong officials in the war. Mortar Barrage The Red guerrillas struck back today with a mortar barrage on an air field and district headquarters at Nha Trang, an old China Sea resort town 200 miles northeast of Saigon. U. S. spokesmen said the half-hour barrage wounded six Vietnamese soldiers, destroyed or heavily damaged a Vietnamese helicopter and damaged a U. S. Air Force C123 transport plane. No U. S. casualties were reported. In the central highlands, U. S. Air Force B57s and Marine Corps Phantom jets called out 16 strikes today against Tou Morong, a district capital seized by the Communists Saturday. Bad flying weather prevented earlier attacks. Destroy Howitzer U. S. spokesmen said the planes destroyed one of two 105 mm. howitzers seized by the guerrillas from the defenders. The other was damaged, they said. If the guerrillas had succeeded in carrying off the artillery pieces intact, they would have been the first guns of such size known to be in the hands of the Viet Cong. The danger of ambush in the remote area and unsuitable flying conditions for helicopters apparently delayed an effort by South Vietnamese ground troops to dislodge the guerrillas. Ont. Houseboat Sinks; 12 Die

DRYDEN, Ont. — Twelve persons including eight children were drowned Sunday night when a houseboat capsized in high winds on nearby Wabigoon Lake, Ontario provincial police reported. All were from the Dryden area. Police said two other persons on the boat reached shore safely. The houseboat was reported to have gone under as it sought shelter in Bonny Bay, about eight miles east of Dryden. Dryden is in northwest Ontario, 200 miles east of Winnipeg. See ONT. Counselling Plan To Aid Needy Scheduled Here

Two child care organizations announced a joint project Sunday to provide intensive counselling services to needy children and their families here during the next 12 months. Aided by Grant Springfield Children's Study Home and the state Division of Child Guardianship have inaugurated the Cooperative Demonstration Project, partly by a $19,000 grant by the DCG from federal funds available to it. Project officials said the grant is one of the largest of its type ever received in the Springfield area. Lindo Ferrini, executive director of the Children's Study Home, said the project will be a joint effort of the Children's Study Home and the state Division of Child Guardianship.
